Traditions: Maintaining Our History

Most alums of recent years will remember Dr. Dixon's annual dandelion chapel message. Singing "Christ is All I Need," or "I Woke Up This Morning" is another Dixon tradition. "Traditions are important," says Dr. Paul Dixon. "They speak of maintaining your history, who you are, and your mission."

The Dixon family abounds with traditions—those they established early in their marriage, those they observe with their son's family, and those they started and carry on at Cedarville College.

As a couple, the Dixons chose Psalm 37:23 to engrave on their wedding rings. They also choose a verse for each year. This year's verse is Psalm 138:8, "The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me: thy mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever: forsake not the works of thine own hands."

The Christmas holidays are synonymous with family traditions. Each year, a friend in North Carolina secures a large Douglas fir for the Dixons' gathering room. They have Christmas trees in every room of the house, and now that grandchildren gladden their lives, there is a children's tree for the small ones to decorate. Scott '84 and Sara Beattie Dixon '84 have four children—Andrew (9), Benjamin (6), Anna (4), and Seth (2). Mrs. Dixon maintains a collection of ornaments for each child, each year adding to the collection. She intends to present the ornaments to the grandchildren when they marry. Oysters and dressing are traditional at Christmas, and black-eyed peas are served for New Years. The Dixons visit the college students in their decorated dorm rooms during the Christmas open houses.

"Each year," says Mrs. Dixon, "I give Sara a 'slave week,' when I do whatever she would like done." Mrs. Dixon has kept clothing from special occasions, such as wedding wear and the first maternity dress, to pass on. The grandchildren are wearing some of the clothing Scott wore as a child.

Cedarville College abounds with traditions that the Dixons began. They host receptions in their home each spring for the graduating seniors. Each year, they also invite the presidents of all the student organizations into their home for a meeting on "Leadership with Class." "Excellence is important in all arenas of life," states Dr. Dixon. "God created and said, 'It is good.' He did things with excellence, and so should we."

Dr. Dixon started the Fall Convocation, the annual Charter Day beginning in 1986 with Cedarville's Centennial, and Charter Week to recall the college history. Alumni Week and the Homecoming Alumni Chapel have become traditions, as well as other special chapels presented by seniors, Who's Who honorees, and faculty and staff. The annual theme for the college year is prayerfully selected and visually presented on the wall behind the chapel platform. A Monday morning chapel is dedicated to recognizing students. Dr. Dixon gives prizes to students from the largest family, from the greatest distance, and many other categories. The Sophomore Celebration Breakfast and ice cream social for President's Scholars are also Dixon traditions.

Mrs. Dixon's talent for decorating is evident on the campus. Each season brings a different decor to the chapel platform. When the students return from Thanksgiving vacation, the campus has been transformed for the Christmas season.

We are grateful for the Dixons' leadership and role modeling and for the traditions they have given us.

Our Traditions

Cedarville College Benchmarks For The 21st Century

In 1988, the administration and Board of Trustees at Cedarville College established 20 benchmarks—the traditions that have given Cedarville College strength over the years and those traditions that will carry us into the 21st century.

- 1. Mission driven
The college mission provides the focus for the direction of the College and is consistently articulated before all our constituencies.
- 2. Commitment to strategic planning
Strategic planning drives the vision and helps to fulfill the mission of the College. The process involves the trustees, administrators, faculty, and staff. Resource decisions are directly related to the strategic plan.
- 3. Bible minor for all students
A minor in Bible is a required portion of every baccalaureate program.
- 4. Chapel
Daily chapel is central to the experience for our Cedarville College family. It is the heartbeat of a Christian college, and it will continue to be a priority with attendance required of faculty and students.
- 5. Commitment to evangelism and discipleship
A commitment to evangelism and discipleship motivates the spiritual life of the College and is integrated throughout the various programs. Fulfilling the Great Commission will continue to be a major focus.
- 6. Commitment to strengthening the Christian faith
A commitment to strengthening the Christian faith motivates emphases on biblical scholarship and an informed passion of the propagation of the Word of God.
- 7. Baptist
The College retains its doctrinal statement historically identified as Baptist while offering its education to a broad diversity of Christian students.
- 8. Unity on the doctrinal statement with acceptance of diversity in other areas
College personnel manifest unwavering unity on the doctrinal statement with acceptance of the exercise of Christian liberty in other areas.
- 9. Distinction between biblical mandates and institutional preferences
A distinction between biblical mandates and institutional preferences is maintained to create a productive atmosphere for developing Christian lifestyle patterns and attitudes.
- 10. A caring family
The college family reaches out with genuine care, wherever and however possible, to its own members, alumni, local community, and others.
- 11. Comprehensive academics
Comprehensive academics with a traditional liberal arts core prepares graduates for graduate school and professional careers and provides the foundation for lifelong learning and personal and family development.

Our Traditions

- 12. Primarily an undergraduate institution
Quality in undergraduate higher education is the core of the college program. When graduate programs are considered, they will be started only if they enhance the quality of the undergraduate program.
- 13. Balance
Programming will maintain a responsiveness to the whole person with the resulting balance of the spiritual, academic, professional, personal, social, and physical.
- 14. Strong extracurricular activities program
A strong extracurricular activities program involving as many students as possible enhances personal, social, physical, and leadership development.
- 15. Sound management principles
The exercise of faith and the stewardship of God's resources require sound management and fiscal policies.
- 16. Non-governmental support
As a part of its commitment to independence and to the free enterprise philosophy, the College operates apart from direct support from the government.
- 17. Price/value
Costs to students remain competitive with lower cost competitors while the value of the educational experience is equal to or greater than higher cost competitors.
- 18. Assuring student access
Academic pricing and standards are set to provide opportunity for enrollment and degree completion by a diverse student population.
- 19. Strategic involvement in community development
The College is involved with local and regional planning entities as an active participant in community growth.
- 20. Recruitment, development, and retention of personnel
The recruitment, development, and retention of competent and dedicated personnel contribute to the long-term benefit of the College and the value of its programs.

The Rock

For nearly 20 years, members of the Cedarville College family have enjoyed the tradition of The Rock. Located between the College Center, Milner Business Administration Building, and ENS Center, The Rock has endured countless paintings, its message often changing every day.

Those who use The Rock to convey their messages include individuals proposing to girlfriends or boyfriends, organizations intent on showing their spirit, or dormitory residents expressing their creativity.

The most popular medium for decorating The Rock is spray paint. Almost every color in the spectrum has probably been used on The Rock, but two- or three-color schemes seem most prevalent for each new rendering.

This particular rock has only been around since October 28, 1978. Before its arrival, the college family had a "spirit log." It was the trunk of an old tree, and students often competed for possession of the spirit log. Men's dormitories particularly enjoyed this rivalry, although Faith Hall successfully captured it once.

Before the spirit log came to campus, students liked to hide the bell that belonged to the college bookstore. That bell is now cemented in front of the Athletic Center.

Even prior to the tradition of hiding the bell, students had two other rocks that often "disappeared" and reappeared in odd places on campus or around town. The first rock came to campus through the efforts of the Class of 1960, which includes Dwayne Frank, Merlin Ager, Pete Reese, and David Matson. A second rock found its way to campus a few years later. Both rocks could be moved by four or five people and, unfortunately, someone was injured during an attempt to hide one of the rocks. As a result, both rocks were dumped into a pond.

Today's Rock weighs between nine and ten tons and is not easily moved. It will likely remain in its present location and continue to capture the creative communication of the Cedarville College students.

Blending Traditions

Chancellor James T. Jeremiah and Ethel Rayburn Jeremiah discovered that their respective families share some of the same traditions. They celebrated their first anniversary in March and are enjoying their second marriage.

A Christmas morning tradition of both families that Dr. and Mrs. Jeremiah continue is to read Luke 2 and pray before opening gifts. A new Christmas tradition takes them to El Cajon, California where they attend "Sounds of the Season," an annual musical presented by Shadow Mountain Community Church, pastored by Dr. David Jeremiah '64. On the return trip, the Jeremiahs stop in Waterloo, Iowa to visit Mrs. Jeremiah's daughter Marilyn Rayburn Twigg '78 and her family. The holidays conclude with a New Years Day tradition that Mrs. Jeremiah brought to the new marriage—dining out with friends.

Continuing the tradition of serving others and serving the Lord holds high priority with these senior saints. Dr. Jeremiah continues his daily radio program, "The Senior Advantage." He also has a full schedule of speaking engagements to senior groups at churches and camps, accompanied by his wife, who manages the book table. Mrs. Jeremiah continues her weekly service as a Red Cross volunteer at Greene Memorial Hospital in Xenia, Ohio.

Cultural Christmas Tree Becomes Campus Tradition

This is the third year that the Alumni Association has displayed a Cultural Christmas Tree for the enjoyment of alumni who return to Homecoming. The tree, its many beautiful ornaments donated by alumni, answered a need to recognize and involve our 175 alumni who live and serve in a variety of cultures overseas and in the United States.

The tree is also displayed for the student body during the month of December, and prayer requests for those alumni in missions and living overseas are brought before the student body in chapel each day. Students have also become involved by bringing back ornaments from MIS trips. The first tree, lighted in 1993, held 64 donated ornaments. If you would like to donate an ornament for the tree, please mail it to the Alumni Office, P.O. Box 601, Cedarville, OH 45314, along with any information about the ornament, the culture, and yourself.

Project Angel Tree— Straight From The Heart

For nine years, members of the Cedarville College family and listeners of the CDR Radio Network have helped parents who are in prison share Christmas with their children by providing gifts on their behalf.

"Angel Tree provides a great hands-on learning experience about the blessings that come from giving," says CDR Radio's Mark Kordic '87N, coordinator of the annual outreach. "We are not just giving gifts such as clothing and toys," Kordic says. "With each gift is an illustrated booklet, telling about the life of Jesus and the plan of salvation—the story of what Christmas is all about."

One of the goals of the project is to restore family ties which are often broken by the pressures of incarceration. Prayers have been answered in a number of families. Several former inmates who had gifts delivered to their children when they were behind bars have become believers and now serve as active donors to other families!

The project is sponsored in conjunction with Prison Fellowship, an international Christian outreach. If you are interested in taking part in Project Angel Tree in your community, contact the CDR Radio Network at 1-800-333-0601.

A Ministry of Prison Fellowship

From The Director's Chair

I remember the most wonderful traditions my family had when I was a small child. Everyone got new clothes for Easter (all five children!). Then we would have an Easter egg hunt after dinner and, well, the clothes weren't new for long. Or my dad always hung lights at Christmas. Not just on the Christmas tree indoors, but on the house, the dog house, lining the driveway, over the bushes, on every tree in the yard. And anything else that did not move twinkled at Christmas time. And now that I have a family of my own, the traditions that I established for myself as a young adult are important to me as I pass them down to my son—reading the Christmas story of Jesus' birth from the New Testament Gospels; inviting co-workers and students over at every holiday so they can enjoy a "family away from family;" fixing waffles and bacon for Sunday night dinner.

Cedarville College began some of these traditions for me. As I recall the times I was invited to spend holidays with friends when my home was too far away, it encourages me to do the same for others. We can all recall a tradition learned while living at Cedarville. And some from my era are quite humorous...Harold Green's hot dogs, squares, and diamonds sermon; the chapel pulpit (the size of a boat taking 10 strong men to launch her off the platform); and "whales" in the lake.

In this issue of Inspire, we have brought you some traditions of Cedarville College and her family members. Homecoming 1995 is also reviewed for you, and I trust that you enjoy reminiscing via photos of this year's events. Many alumni tell me, "Things have changed so much at Cedarville!" It is most encouraging to look at the traditions that have not changed—daily required chapel, a curriculum that maintains a Bible minor for every student, and Christian ministry coupled with community involvement.

We hope you enjoy this issue! Don't forget to mark January 26 and 27 on your calendar for Alumni Basketball Weekend. We will honor Don and Nedra Callan '84H and welcome Jeff Reep '78 as new men's head basketball coach. You also won't want to miss Charter Day festivities and The Ohio State Men's Glee Club in concert on January 26. See you then!

- Serve a four-year term
- Meet quarterly, providing leadership and direction for the Association
- File an annual written evaluation of the effectiveness of the alumni program and staff
- Serve as the Alumni Development Committee of the College
- Administer the conferring of awards

Council members will also:

- Be supportive of the College by having given financially since graduation and by having visited campus since graduation
- Serve in an advisory capacity to the Alumni Office on behalf of alumni by providing ideas, reacting to proposals, perusing printed materials, and receiving and providing informal information through personal phone calls to alumni
- Be involved in planning, scheduling, and evaluating current and future alumni programs and events
- Receive reports about campus developments from various administrators
- Serve on Council committees
 - Alumni Relations
 - Alumni Development
 - Student Relations
- Form and serve on subcommittees to deal with specific events or council needs
- Support the Director of Alumni Relations
- Help to spread good will among alumni
- Make use of this document by reviewing it annually to ensure that these goals are being met and that they are effective

Alumni Basketball Weekend

Yellow Jacket Yellow Fever

is about to strike the campus of Cedarville College! Remember those days when you "hit the hardwood" as a Yellow Jacket basketball player? Or when you stood in the stands as a spirited fan and cheered the Jackets to victory? Plan now to be a part of Alumni Basketball Weekend—

January 26-27, 1996.

Set aside Friday evening for the harmonious tones of The Ohio State University Men's Glee Club. On Saturday, a fellowship brunch will be served for Yellow Jacket alumni with Dr. Paul Dixon presenting an update on the new Ministry Center. Prepare to cheer on the Yellow Jackets as the women face Mount Vernon Nazarene, and the men challenge Urbana University. Meet Jeff Reep '78, head men's basketball coach, and join the Cedarville family in honoring retired Coach Don Callan '84H and his wife, Nedra, throughout the weekend.

This year's enrollment of 2,454 students marks the fifth record enrollment in as many years. The increase of 76 students over fall 1994 resulted from improved retention. The freshman class of 626 students came from 41 states and possess some impressive academic credentials: average high school GPA of 3.53; average ACT of 24.7; 180 (32%) in the top 10% of their high school class, 97 (15%) as valedictorian or salutatorian; 67 (11%) President's Scholars with ACT or SAT in the top 2% nationally.

Alistair Begg, senior pastor of Parkside Church in Chagrin Falls, Ohio, challenged and encouraged the college family as guest speaker for the annual Fall Bible Conference, September 18-22. A native of Scotland, Rev. Begg pastored churches in Edinburgh and Glasgow before coming to Parkside in 1983. His ministry reaches beyond Parkside through radio and Bible study luncheons with Cleveland business leaders. Alistair and his wife, Susan, have three children.

Alumni Council News

Alumna of the Year 1995

Jayne Eberling Schooler graduated from Cedarville College in 1974 with a bachelor of arts in English. After graduation, Jayne planned to teach school, which is exactly what she did in both the public and private school setting from 1975 to 1986. Her involvement with foster parenting began when Jayne and her husband, David, became foster parents in 1978. She has been involved with Warren County Children's Services since 1981, first as a foster parent, then as an adoptive parent. She currently serves as the post adoption services coordinator for the agency located in Lebanon, Ohio.

As part of her duties, Jayne not only works with families and children in their pre- and post-adoption experiences, but she also assists adult adoptees with search and reunion issues. In addition, Jayne conducts workshops on foster and adoptive parent issues both on the state and national level.

Jayne is a regular columnist for the Adoptive Families magazine and has contributed over 160 articles to other state and national publications. She has made guest appearances on over three dozen radio talk shows across the country, speaking on adoption issues.

A writer in the field of foster care and adoption, she is the author of The Whole Life Adoption Book (1993) and Searching for a Past: An Adopted Adult's Unique Process of Finding Identity (1995).

David is senior pastor of the West Carrollton Nazarene Church, and Jayne has shared in her husband's ministry for 20 years. Jayne and David are the parents of two children, Ray (28), who joined their family first by foster care and then by adoption at the age of 16, and a birth daughter, Kristy (19).

Honorary Alumni of the Year 1995

Albert and Joanna Stevens

Albert and Joanna Stevens first heard about Cedarville College when a Kingsmen Quartet ministered in their church in New Jersey. When their sons, David and Mark, chose to come to Cedarville, they began a long, close relationship with the College.

Both Al and Joanna had come to know the Lord as children during evangelistic meetings in their respective Indiana churches and, as teenagers, met at a church youth activity. Al went on to Indiana State University. Joanna had lost both her parents, and she and Al decided to marry when she graduated from high school. He finished his undergraduate degree in 1961 and subsequently earned an MBA from Indiana State.

They learned about the OPEX Corporation when a company Al was working for in Terre Haute purchased OPEX equipment to open mail. Later the New Jersey-based OPEX hired Al as a national sales manager, and the family moved east. In 1975, the Stevens had the opportunity to purchase the company when it filed Chapter 11 bankruptcy. They made a profit the first year of their ownership and, under their 20-year leadership, OPEX has grown from eight to 460 employees. Al is president and CEO, Joanna serves as secretary-treasurer and chief financial officer, Mark '81 is vice president of marketing, and David '83 is vice president of manufacturing. Presently, seven other Cedarville graduates are employees of OPEX.

The Stevens are active recruiters for the College. On three occasions, they filled a 54-seat chartered bus with teens from four South Jersey churches and transported them to Cedarville for a visit. They personally maintain a scholarship program. For the past nine years, Al is a member of the college Board of Trustees and has served as chair. He currently chairs the Business Committee of the Board. The Stevens have hosted gatherings for alumni in their area and frequently host groups from the college.

Al and Joanna serve at Calvary Church in Parkertown. Al has been on the Board of Trustees and the Building Committee, and Joanna, on the Missions Committee. They are greeters, a ministry they feel is very important. They host teen activities at their home on the ocean.

Al enjoys fishing, sailing, and wind surfing. Joanna reads and is an avid spectator of professional sports, especially rooting for the '76ers and the '49ers. The couple enjoys six grandchildren.

Young Alumnus of the Year 1995

Duane B. Priddy, Jr.

Duane B. Priddy, Jr. '90 is grateful for the education he received at Cedarville College, especially in the areas of Bible and the sciences. Duane shares, "Cedarville prepared me to be a witness in the scientific community."

After graduating from Cedarville College with a bachelor of arts degree in chemistry, Duane continued his education at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in Blacksburg, Virginia. In May 1994, he completed a Ph.D. in polymer chemistry, with an emphasis in polymer and organic synthesis. His dissertation, "Synthesis and Characterization of Poly(arylene ether)s Containing Phosphorus and Heterocyclic Pendant Moieties," earned a U.S. patent on phosphorous-containing polymers. During the summers of 1992 and 1993, Duane served as a mentor for the National Science Foundation Summer Internship Program. Duane not only developed projects for interns and guided their research, but also helped them improve their presentation and professional writing skills.

Achieving a place on the dean's list at Cedarville College for four years and being named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges (1990)," Duane continued his academic excellence at Virginia Tech. In September 1992, he was named "Outstanding Graduate Teaching Assistant in Chemistry." He received the Department of Defense Augmentation Award for Science and Engineering in June 1993. A member of the American Chemical Society and the Society of Plastics Engineers, Duane has published 22 manuscripts in scientific journals. He currently has four U.S. patents pending.

As an organic polymer chemist with Bayer Corporation, Duane is working on a variety of new medical grade plastics. As the result of a new process he developed to convert a basic plastic into new materials, he was chosen for a two-year assignment with Bayer in Germany, beginning in June 1996.

Duane and his wife, Alisa, met through the singles' group at their church in Blacksburg, Virginia. After their marriage in June 1994, the Priddys moved to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, where they attend Northway Christian Community Church. Duane continues to use his musical talents in ministry, as well as teaching Sunday school. On August 5, 1995, Duane and Alisa rejoiced in the arrival of a daughter, Ashley Marie.

Duane and Alisa eagerly look forward to their assignment in Germany as a "tent-making" opportunity, using his profession as a tool to reach others for Christ. In anticipation of this ministry, Duane and Alisa have already begun German lessons!

Distinguished Educator 1995

James Murray Murdoch

The Distinguished Educator Award, established in 1972, honors Cedarville College educators who have exhibited truly exceptional performance in the areas of teaching, research, student development, leadership, and service. This award is given to professors who have consistently integrated their discipline with a Christian world-view, and have contributed both to the intellectual and spiritual development of their students. Previous recipients are Dr. Robert Gromacki, Bible, 1975; Dr. James Grier, Bible, 1981; and Dr. Larry Helmick, Science and Mathematics, 1989. Dr. James Murray Murdoch '88H now joins this select group.

Completing 25 years of teaching at Cedarville College, Dr. Murdoch has worn many hats while establishing himself as a popular and caring professor. In 1975, he became chair of the Department of Social Sciences and History and continues in this capacity. He has also served on a variety of college committees including curriculum, educational policies, financial aid, and accreditation steering.

Murray is also known as "coach" to alumni who played men's tennis at Cedarville from 1965 to 1994. Having been inducted to the NAIA Hall of Fame in 1992 and the Cedarville College Athletic Hall of Fame in 1986 speaks well of his outstanding ability to work with young adults in a "pressure cooker" competition. He has also served the sport on the national and state levels with leadership in the Intercollegiate Tennis Association, NAIA national tournaments, MOC, and NAIA District 22.

Well written, Dr. Murdoch enjoyed researching the history of Cedarville College for A Century of Commitment: The Centennial History of Cedarville College, 1887-1987. Other published works include Portrait of Obedience: A Biography of R. T. Ketcham and numerous periodical articles.

Dr. Murdoch served as interim pastor to churches in Springfield and Bellefontaine, Ohio, and currently is senior pastor at Grace Baptist Church in Westerville, Ohio.

Murray and his wife, Ruth, reside in Springfield, Ohio. They have two adult children, Jim '87, and Mark '91. Jim is currently living in Germany, studying under a Fulbright Scholarship, and Mark serves as youth pastor for Far Hills Baptist Church in Dayton, Ohio.

Seven Cedarville College alumni work for a Christian children's agency in Southampton, Pennsylvania. Bethanna cares for abused and neglected children through residential treatment, foster care, in-home social services, and adoption. Amy Barnes '95, Sandra Peura '95, Treva Stutzman '90, Doug Moore '90, Shelly Baesen '94, Ginny Stevenson '93, and Anita Lyndaker '94 work for the agency. Pictured are Sandra (left) and Amy.

The Cedarville College Alumni Home Page appears on the World Wide Web! Learn about upcoming alumni activities, find a classmate's e-mail address in the alumni directory, or learn of other alumni's prayer needs in this new service for alumni. Reach us through Cedarville College's home page at <http://www.cedarville.edu> under "College Information." Christ Is All I Need

On June 6, 1990, Nadine Terrill Hennesey's world and dreams for her future were shattered.

Nadine '87 and her husband, Ed '88N, were working as mission interns at First Baptist Church in Goodells, Michigan. Having met while students at Cedarville College, they were earnestly preparing to go to Peru as missionaries. "He had a heart for Peru; I had a heart for kids," Nadine shares. The Hennesey's excitement mounted as they awaited the birth of their first child in just five months.

On that June morning in 1990, Ed left home as usual to fulfill his responsibilities as youth pastor at the church. When she brought his lunch in the early afternoon, Nadine was surprised to find Ed apparently sleeping on the couch in the church office. But as she approached, she knew something was wrong. Nadine called for help, but it was too late—Ed Hennesey had died of cardiac arrest at the age of 26. "I knelt down and cried out," Nadine remembers. "I tried to convince God to save him because I needed him. But instead, He put a song in my head—'Christ Is All I Need'."

Their daughter, Lydia, was born in November of that year. Living in Michigan with her husband's family, Nadine taught at New Life Christian Academy in Port Huron. Slowly, God began to nourish her dream of ministering to children in Peru.

In September 1995, Nadine and five-year-old Lydia left for Iquitos, Peru, a jungle city accessible only by plane or boat. Serving with Association of Baptists for World Evangelism (ABWE), Nadine will teach missionary children and work with Peruvian children in remote villages along the Amazon River. "It's exciting," Nadine says. "It was Ed's dream—now it's mine."

An energetic and dedicated young woman, Nadine states, "There's something in me that doesn't want that comfortable, satisfied life. I want to do more and go above and beyond for God." In the five years since her husband's death, Nadine has been grateful for the song that draws emotion for so many Cedarville College alumni. In a recent letter, Nadine, shared with President Paul Dixon, "Thank you for teaching me 'Christ Is All I Need.' God has taught me that truth."

Traditions Through Traveling

Karen Chrestensen Reno '74 thought for many miles about the "traveling quilt" she would donate to the Alumni Auction. Karen writes, "All quilts should have a story. This one started in Wichita Falls, Texas in the early spring of 1994. Sandy Millikin Entner '59 asked me if I would donate a quilt to the auction. I agreed, and this would have been born in Texas except...we moved. So, this summer, my ideas for the quilt went through Little Rock, Arkansas; Nashville, Tennessee; Fredericksburg, Virginia; and Harrisburg, Pennsylvania until we stopped at Stoner Lake, New York for vacation. There I cooled my heels, relaxed and breathed crisp mountain air. As I watched the mountain mists lift off our lake, this quilt began to form in my mind. Then, after we left the peace of the mountains and moved to bustling Metro Washington, D.C., this quilt was finally born amidst brown boxes and packing paper!"

When I finished the quilt top, I sent it back to Texas to be machine quilted by a friend. Soon I'll pack it up and take it to Ohio, to Cedarville College, for my 20th reunion. There I'll swap old stories and times with friends, and this quilt will start the rest of its story!" Using red, white, and blue in the castle wall medallion and log cabin border drove home significance for Karen. "These are the colors which we live with, not just in the decor of our home, but in our hearts. The sight of Old Glory waving still leaves a lump in my throat, and I am a patriot by choice."

Roots mean much to the Reno family. Loren '70 and Karen, along with their three children Rachel (18), Joseph (15), and Joshua (12), know the meaning of traveling, as Loren's 22-year career in the U.S. Air Force has moved the family nine times in the past 20 years. When Karen and Loren were first married and lived in The Philippines, they would spend some time every day plugging back into their United States roots through prayer and meditation.

Now in the U.S., Reno traditions are developed, added, and maintained. Karen reflects, "Even when our personal circumstances change, we can count on tradition that has given us a rooted sense of being. In the same way our traditions have changed through the years, making us stronger."

In the mid 1980's the Renos began writing an annual Christmas letter to family and friends, which always included a family photo, illustrated quilt design from Karen, and an annual overview as experienced by daughter Rachel. One year the family was too busy to get the photo taken, so Joshua pitched in and drew a stick figure Reno family. The illustrations were something Karen began doing at Cedarville College. She would draw words and concepts of professors' notes. She continued this technique with her children as they strove to learn Bible verses and stories.

The Renos always stay in their own home for Christmas and invite family to join them. The Christmas morning treasure hunt which Loren orchestrates has provided a consistency from Christmas to Christmas. Even when Loren has been called for duty during the holidays and is stationed in another country, the family finds ways to share tradition. One Christmas when Loren was stationed in Turkey, Karen and the children wrapped a can of oyster stew and crackers and mailed them to Loren for his New Year's Eve dinner, a traditional meal shared by all and loved by some!

Karen has found it important to take traditions with them when they move. Each Reno child has what Karen terms as an "over-the-bed picture." Each child has a picture of Loren with him or her in his arms immediately after birth, and the pictures hang over or near their beds. Rachel has commented that houses just don't feel like home until those pictures are hanging up.

The Reno family looks forward to any time they can spend in their family cabin located in the Adirondak Mountains in New York. Inherited from Loren's father, the cabin has been a vacation spot since 1981. This tradition affords the opportunity for the entire family to get away. "And the first thing that goes out is the United States Flag when we arrive," states Karen. "Joshua and his father carry the flag out while we all wait outside. They salute it, and then we move in."

Coming back to Cedarville has the same sense of rootedness for the Reno family. As Rachel participated in the Summer Studies program, she was comforted by a sense of belonging where people know her mom and dad. "It is much more than just coming back for Homecoming," says Karen. "We want to share Cedarville as a tradition with our children, too."

The Renos live in Springfield, Virginia and attend Immanuel Bible Church, where they are active in Sunday school and choir.

Rediscovering Traditions

In June, Dr. Brian Kennedy '85, associate professor of English at Cedarville College, presented a paper at a conference in Moscow, Russia. The conference examined a Russian philosopher and literary critic whom Brian had studied.

What Brian found in Russia was a culture simultaneously regaining a sense of its past and celebrating its freedom as traditions are re-emerging in the post-Communist era. The Russians, despite their economic woes, are spending money to put pieces of their past back into place, as evidenced by a tiny church being rebuilt near St. Basil's Cathedral.

While on a visit to the Kremlin, the ancient fort in the center of the city, Brian's tour guide revealed clearly her faith in Christ. When asked whether she thought many Russians believed the gospel of Christ, she said that many were eager to hear. Even while they were being persecuted, she commented, many Russians maintained private worship in their homes. She expressed her joy at the new era of freedom where she could worship openly.

While riding the subway, Brian observed that Russians are anxious to enjoy their freedom while they have it. Each trip on the Metro revealed young people wearing beautiful, contemporary Western-style formal wear, no matter what day of the week it was. Older gentlemen proudly displayed military medals on the chests of their blue suits as they traveled beside their wives. At every stop, more people flooded the trains, fresh from a day at the park with friends, or just leaving home with picnic lunches in hand. People all around were celebrating this moment of the wonderful Moscow summer.

Russian life is still lived hard. People accustomed to social services and guaranteed employment now scratch out an existence without help. Yet for this moment, they are living life to the fullest. At the same time, they are rediscovering faith. Thanks to the efforts of people committed to the true gospel, many Russians are finding the Christ of the Bible.

Brian says, "I was fortunate to glimpse a rare moment in Russian life, one which may be fleeting."

Founder's Hall, formerly "Old Main," was built in 1895. The oldest building on campus, Founder's Hall has housed everything from the print shop to students, classrooms to chapel, and the cafeteria to the mail room. Today, the Department of Biblical Education, President's Office, and Annual Fund Office can all be found in this building. The "superstructure," costing $14,000 in 1895, was topped by a large tower and became a community landmark for Cedarville.

Alumni Basketball Weekend

Alumni Basketball Weekend has been a Cedarville College tradition since the early 1980's. Mark your calendar to be a part of this year's tradition—January 26-27, 1996. Come Friday to enjoy the harmonious tones of The Ohio State University Men's Glee Club. Cheer on the players from your days at the 'Ville in the afternoon alumni games. In the evening, the Lady Jackets face Mount Vernon Nazarene, and the men challenge Urbana University. Watch your mail in December for more details on this fun-filled event!

Heritage Corner

Heritage Alumni Celebrate Homecoming

Twenty-four faithful Heritage Alumni celebrated the tradition of Homecoming by attending the State of the College Address, followed by a luncheon on Friday, October 20. In the State of the College Address, Dr. Dixon dedicated two new dormitories. The dorms are named after the first two presidents of Cedarville College, Dr. David McKinney (1894-1915) and Dr. Wilbert McChesney (1915-1940). The Miter Conference Center, located between the two buildings, serves as a common lounge, conference location, and study area. The Heritage Alumni toured the dormitories following lunch in the President's Dining Room.

Harper Bickett Keeps A Cedarville Tradition

When Harper Bickett '24 attended Cedarville College in the early 1920's, he had a tradition of inviting classmates and friends to the Bickett family farm for Sunday afternoon meals, bonfires, and hayrides.

Mr. Bickett continues the spirit of this tradition with today's Cedarville College students. Each year, Mr. Bickett houses one male student, free of charge, for the school year. He provides room and board in exchange for a little company. Harper's generosity has benefitted many a student who could not have attended Cedarville College without this assistance. Harper Bickett is recognized as Cedarville College Alumni Association's oldest living alumnus. He celebrated his 92nd birthday last January at a college basketball game.

Smith Leads College Public Relations

In September, Roscoe Smith '82 shifted his focus from college admissions to public relations. Roscoe began responsibilities as director of public relations for Cedarville College after 12 years in the admissions office. "I was not seeking to leave my position—I enjoyed my co-workers, my supervisor, and especially the students," Roscoe shares, "A friend encouraged me to pursue this challenge. After meeting with the public relations staff, I knew I could be excited about this opportunity."

With a master of business administration degree from Wright State University (1987), Roscoe brings management skills as well as valuable experience to represent the College. "Admissions gave me the opportunity to present Cedarville College in an accurate, positive way to its many publics. I have already had many opportunities to articulate where Cedarville College has been and where we are headed."

Roscoe is thankful to the Lord for granting him life, ability, and the experiences that will enable him to continue to serve at Cedarville College. "I am happy to join a public relations department that has been well-managed and respected not only in the college family, but in the community as well," shares Roscoe. "I look forward to building on the tradition of a solid organization."

Bartlett Heads Planned Giving

"The area of planned giving is a very exciting one, and we anticipate a lot of activity in the next few years," says Dave Bartlett, new director of planned giving. "We want to make sure the College is in a position to serve those people who have a stewardship plan which includes transferring assets to the College."

Dave, who joined the Development Division this fall, is a graduate of Southern Illinois University and has had extensive experience in financial management as a consultant and as the chief financial officer of several companies. Most recently, he was chief financial officer of the Dumont Companies in Peoria, Illinois.

Dave also has served as the consultant to Baptist Mission of North America for the restoration of value to investors following the collapse of the mission's church loan program. He will continue in this consultancy until the completion of the project.

"My family and I are excited about being at Cedarville," he says. "We definitely feel the Lord has led us here and hope to be here for a long time." Dave and his wife, Linda, have two children. Brad is a sophomore professional writing major at the College, and Sarah is a sophomore at Cedarville High School.

WSRN, the student-run/faculty-advised radio station of Cedarville College, held a reunion in honor of alumni and five successful years of operation. Included were tours of the studio, pizza, and replays of highlights. The station, devoted to the Cedarville student body, began broadcasting in 1990.

A Homecoming tradition which Cedarville alumni enjoy is the annual alumni soccer game. Held at 1:00 p.m. every year on Homecoming Saturday, the game welcomes back those alumni who played during their college careers. Twenty-seven men joined coach John McGillivray '70 for an exciting match and received commemorative T-shirts. This dedicated group of alumni has established a scholarship in memory of Lt. Col. David Jones '84. David, who played for four years at Cedarville College, was killed in a helicopter crash in the Kuwaiti desert during the summer of 1992.

HOME COMING '95

Tim Walborn '92 sings of God's love in Monday's Homecoming Week Chapel.

Officers and advisors meet at the Class of 1990 five year reunion picnic, held in the Gibbs' backyard.

Sophomore education major Nikki Anderson, also known as "Star" the clown, entertains children of alumni during the Children's Program.

Celebrating their 10 year reunion, Shelly Beaman Benson '85 and Kelly Ward Church '85 are all smiles.

Arthur "Doc" Evans '29 shares his memories of Cedarville College in the 1920's.

The Class of 1960 celebrates their 35 year reunion by riding in the Homecoming Parade.

Jerry Stafford '65 and Jerry Osborn '67 reminisce at the Class of 1965 reunion.

1977 graduate and Cedarville College trustee William "Chip" Bernhard returned to challenge students during Homecoming Week. He serves as senior pastor at Garfield Baptist Church in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Auctioneer Steve Thompson '79 takes bids for Cat's Meow Village replicas of Founders Hall and Collins Hall, both signed by President Paul Dixon and Chancellor James T. Jeremiah. Our special thanks goes to Steve for donating his services to the Alumni Auction as auctioneer.

The women of Alpha Delta Omega (ADO) hosted a reunion for returning alumnae who were members of the organization. The ladies enjoyed getting to know the current members as they chatted during an afternoon tea in the Engineering/Nursing/Science Center. Twenty-four alumni and current members attended.

Baptist Bible Institute (BBI) alumni reunite during Homecoming weekend every other year. This year the group of 24 enjoyed dinner in the President's Dining Room, the Prism XV Concert, and reminiscing about life in Cedarville during the mid 1950's. BBI began in the Hough Avenue Baptist Church in Cleveland, Ohio and moved to Cedarville's campus in the fall of 1953 to carry on the work of educating young people "For the Word of God, and the Testimony of Jesus Christ."

Deb Bush Haffey '68, Bonnie Beikert Vickman '83, Joy Fagan '89, Marlene Bleeker Clark '77, faculty spouse Jamie Whitmore and Carmen Bower '94 return to provide special music during Homecoming Week, representing four decades of alumni. Beth Loper Dillon '76 accompanied on piano.

Vernon Miller '63 bids on one of many items at this year's Alumni Auction. All proceeds from the auction benefit the Alumni Scholarship Fund.

Tim Kaufman '76 traveled from Winter Springs, Florida to perform Saturday evening's concert. Tim ministers throughout the United States as a song evangelist.

The Class of 1975 gathers for a family snack time to celebrate their 20 year reunion. Dave Clapp '75, Sandi Holwerda Schlappi '75, Merilee Johnson Shank '75, Vicki Huddleston Dawson, and Nancy Lochel Clapp '75 enjoy the time spent with friends.

Ron Meyers '71 and Dave Southwell '70 take time to reminisce at the 25 year reunion breakfast at the Dixons' home.

Alumni from all over the country check in at the registration tent. The sign-in board lets them know who is present at the weekend's festivities.

This year's Homecoming queen is senior Sarah Warnken, an applied psychology major from Factoryville, Pennsylvania.

The Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology (ABET) granted accreditation for Cedarville's BSEE and BSME degree programs at their first point of eligibility. According to Charles Allport, director of engineering, "ABET is the only accrediting body for engineering programs in the United States. Accreditation is recognized throughout the engineering community as a common and universal measure of quality." A new program cannot be considered for accreditation until students have completed the entire course of study to demonstrate its total content. Cedarville graduated its first class of engineering students in June 1994.

The 1995-96 Artist Series opener on October 6 was a first, as college family members traveled to the Dayton Art Institute for the evening. Music ensembles such as Concert Chorale (left) performed in the galleries, and The Carillon Brass presented a concert in Great Auditorium. Guests enjoyed desserts and punch, while outside the building, they were treated to Chicago-style hot dogs and trolley rides. Many thanks to Dick Walker '74N and the Campus Activities staff for a delightful evening!

Regional Gathering Update

In Dallas, Texas

Dallas Theological Seminary (DTS) was the location for a gathering of 39 alumni and friends of Cedarville College on Friday, September 22. Hosted by Timothy '69 and Beverlee Mason Warren '70, the time of fellowship was a great success! The group of alumni shared memories of Cedarville, and most related a connection with DTS, since many Cedarville grads attend the seminary in further preparation for full-time ministry. Desserts and a viewing of the new Ministry Center video were highlights of the evening.

In Moorestown, New Jersey

OPEX Corporation was the gathering place for 37 alumni and friends of Cedarville College on Friday, September 29. The evening included dessert and viewing a video tape of the new Ministry Center, a $15 million campaign effort currently underway. Seven Cedarville College alumni are a part of the 470 OPEX Corporation employees. The president of OPEX Corporation, Al Stevens, and his wife, Joanna, hosted the event. Al serves on the board of trustees for the College, and Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were named 1995 Honorary Alumni of the Year.

In North Philadelphia

Twenty-five alumni enjoyed dessert and fellowship on Thursday, September 28, hosted by Ruth Fareno Longenecker '83. The gathering was held on the campus of World-Wide Evangelization for Christ (WEC) International in Fort Washington, Pennsylvania. Alumni enjoyed reminiscing about attending chapel during their Cedarville days and giving updates on how God is currently blessing in their lives.

Chuck McKinney, manager of Pioneer College Caterers at Cedarville College, received a 15-year award during the College's annual service awards ceremony. Although Chuck is not technically an employee of the College, his presence at the College is certainly a tradition. The college family greatly appreciates Chuck's hard work, excellent service, and tasty meals.

Athletic training, offered as a major at Cedarville College since January 1994, is flourishing with over 25 students in the program. Cedarville graduates perform admirably on the National Certification Exam for Athletic Trainers. Nationally, only 37% pass all sections of the exam on the first attempt—in the past 12 months, four Cedarville College graduates successfully completed the entire exam. Our hearty congratulations to Jim McCallister '93, Steve Padgett '93, Robin Lensch '95, and Jon Plush '95!

Nine Cedarville students are involved in an Atlanta Olympic Broadcasters program that offers hands-on, practical experience for broadcasting majors. This summer, the students went through a four-week broadcasting "boot camp" in Kentucky, then traveled to Atlanta, Georgia, host to the Olympic Games, to put their knowledge to use. Students were able to work with and learn from the actual broadcasting director of the Olympic Games. In January, students involved in this project can expect an interview and offer of a contract to work in broadcasting for the 1996 Summer Olympic Games.

Each spring quarter, President Dixon reminds the college family of his dislike for dandelions. In his traditional, five-minute speech preceding his chapel sermon, Dr. Dixon reminds listeners that "The only reason that any member of our college family should walk on the grass on campus is to pick a dandelion." Over the years, alumni have sent countless notes to Dr. Dixon, sharing a variety of dandelion tales.

IN MEMORY OF

Patricia Sturdevant '70 passed away October 6, 1995. She was a resident of Union City, Pennsylvania.

FOCUS ON THE FIELD

Dennis Bellew '65 and his wife, Frances, are missionaries at Bluewater Bible Institute in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. When Hurricanes Luis and Marilyn struck the islands in mid-September 1995, the Institute was hit hard—the chapel was destroyed; the computer lab was wiped out; other buildings suffered extensive damage. The Bellews lost the roof from their house and many of their books. Missionary pilot Don Holland '69N was able to lend assistance, bringing materials from Puerto Rico. Those at Bluewater Institute request much prayer, as the recovery from this tragedy will take some time. The Bellews share that God is good and has "spared us some of the sorrows experienced by others."

Nancy LaBonte Blackwell '86 and her husband, Marc, praise God for His call on their lives. With hearts burdened for the people of South Africa, Nancy and Marc will serve with the Association of Baptists for World Evangelism (ABWE).

Timothy Good '86 and his wife, Virginia, were commissioned on April 23, 1995, to be sent as missionaries to Poland. The Goods will serve with Word of Life International, ministering in youth camps and with local church teen groups. Timothy and Virginia enjoy two children, Matthew (3) and Elizabeth (1).

Steve '91 and Kara McGinnis Murphy '95 are preparing to serve the Lord as missionaries in Romania. Steve and Kara have been on several short-term missions trips, including Brazil and Colombia. Both are actively involved in ministry at Southgate Baptist Church in Springfield, Ohio. The Murphys cherish their son, Richard (1).

David '91 and Wendy Boice Weaver '91 are excited about the opportunity to serve God as a family. As new missionaries with ABWE, Dave, Wendy, and their son, Jonathan (1), are headed for the field of Italy. Both Dave and Wendy participated in MIS trips while they were students at Cedarville College.

THE SECOND GENERATION

Alumni are some of our most faithful recruiters for current students, and many parents and grandparents are delighted when their students choose to attend their alma mater—Cedarville College. We asked all students whose parents or grandparents are alumni of Cedarville to be pictured for the Inspire. Presenting...

The Cedarville College Holy Land Tour Of Israel

March 11-21, 1996

Enjoy! The excitement of wandering through the Promised Land and standing in the place your favorite Bible characters once stood.

Experience! The thrill of standing on the summit of the Mount of Olives, exploring the wonders of Jerusalem, sailing the Sea of Galilee, and worshipping at the site of the Garden Tomb.

Appreciate! Five Star or First Class hotels; available academic or CEU credit.

Dr. Robert Gromacki, distinguished professor of Bible and Greek, is an experienced Israel program leader. He is among the best qualified to provide inspirational and insightful lessons on the sites where the biblical events occurred.

Dr. Martin Clark, vice president for development at Cedarville, will serve as tour host.

Plan now to join us for an unforgettable journey to the lands of the Bible.

Call the Development Office at 513-766-7810 for more information.

Ministry Center Update

Through this primary entrance, one enters the Alumni Hall, a spacious lobby which wraps the southern and eastern edges of The Ministry Center. A bridge will span a small portion of Cedar Lake, leading up to this entrance.

The 250-seat recital hall gives students majoring in music and speech a more intimate atmosphere in which to give their recitals, as well as providing the College more flexibility in offering appropriate facilities for guest lecturers and artists.

Faculty studios will be housed under these beams, providing first-class facilities for one-on-one instruction in instrumental and vocal music. Almost 400 students, both music and non-music majors, take advantage of private lessons.

lumni can anticipate hearing more about The Ministry Center currently under construction. With a 1995 fall enrollment of 2,454 students, the completion of this building will serve to gather the entire college family for chapel, provide needed space for music faculty and classrooms, and house the Christian Ministries department. Currently, the fund-raising effort for this $15 million project totals $9.2 million from friends, alumni, faculty, staff, and churches. Graduates received a 12-minute video describing The Ministry Center project, and an announcement made during the All-Alumni Chapel on Homecoming Weekend invited alumni to support this tremendous effort. Gifts of all sizes are important to the successful conclusion of this project. Dr. Dixon excitedly shared with alumni, "Should God tarry, this time next year we will be putting the finishing touches on The Ministry Center, and we will begin the 1996-97 academic year bringing everyone in the college family together in this facility during Homecoming. God certainly does give exceedingly and abundantly above all we could ask or think." He concluded, "I challenge each of you, as we see this building take shape daily, to utter a prayer of thanksgiving to God. He surely is the master architect and builder of this project."

Acoustically designed for voice, the choral room perfectly accommodates the practice needs of the Music Department's Concert Chorale, Oratorio Chorus, and other ensembles such as the Men's Glee Club and Women's Chorus. With over 200 students involved in such groups, a dedicated facility is necessary.
